

ABSTARACT

An information collection system is provided, which comprises a means of providing a user with an access destination which is accessible through a terminal (1) of a user, a means of transmitting a question items (2) to the terminal (1) of the user when the user makes an access, and a means of receiving data (3) on the answer to the question items (2) transmitted from the terminal (1) of the user, and which is capable of acquiring various kinds of information from the user.